
Kaitlin A. Brown Participates in ICLE Seminar Negotiating Early Resolution of Employment Law Cases

Kaitlin A. Brown recently participated in the Institute for Continuing Legal Education's (ICLE) seminar Negotiating Early Resolution of Employment Law Cases.

Seminar Overview:

Settle your employment law cases early with strategies like using early limited discovery and properly counseling your client for the process. Create a winning strategy for facilitation, and negotiate a settlement that accomplishes your client's goals.

View the preview video on the ICLE website.

Kaitlin A. Brown is an associate in the firm's Corporate and Employment practice groups. Specializing in employment law, Ms. Brown represents employers to prevent and respond to employees' concerns involving wrongful termination, discrimination, harassment, and wage and hour claims. She also reviews contracts, prepares compliant handbooks, and negotiates severance agreements. Ms. Brown has worked with clients in myriad industries, including automotive, corporate, medical, educational, and financial fields. She is committed to fully understanding her clients' business with a results-driven approach to provide high-quality legal advice.