
Why do clients, tax and financial professionals select Maddin Hauser's Tax Practice Group?

Simply stated, we offer high quality, cost effective tax representation to our clients by practitioners with extensive expertise. Our services include a broad spectrum of tax planning initiatives and controversy representation with federal, state and local taxing authorities. In the areas of real estate and partnership taxation, employee benefits and executive compensation, as well as estate planning, our attorneys have been recognized nationally as preeminent practitioners by peers, clients, and even the taxing authorities themselves. Structuring and closing "tough deals," negotiating a favorable result in a tax controversy matter, or reducing a high net worth client's tax bill is where Maddin Hauser's clients see the greatest value.

Our Tax Practice Group members also bring diverse backgrounds and experiences to our clients. For example, the group includes certified public accountants, former IRS agents, recipients of masters in taxation degrees from leading institutions, and members of IRS advisory groups. Probably the best measure of our group's expertise and ability to deliver intended results is the fact that many other tax and financial professionals regularly call upon Maddin Hauser to assist their clients and themselves when specialized tax representation is needed.

Of particular benefit to our clients are the group's "life cycle" capabilities in implementing and/or structuring a business or real estate transaction, employee benefit plan or estate plan. In each of these areas, we possess the experience and capacity to help our clients formulate a plan or structure and then see it through to its conclusion whether it's closing the deal, seeing the fruits of the employee benefit plan until it's no longer needed or bringing to a conclusion a well-executed and tax efficient estate plan. Life cycle capabilities are particularly beneficial to clients because of their seamless, efficient, and cost effective bottom line impact.

If you are faced with challenges in any of these areas, we would appreciate the opportunity to demonstrate the Maddin Hauser "difference".
